I am delighted to introduce the Joint Venture (JV) partnership between the Council and Taylor Wimpey which has been formed to deliver the regeneration of the Winstanley and York Road estates.

This is an exciting step forward, as we now have the team in place to get on with the programme to deliver a new neighbourhood providing hundreds of new, high quality council homes, with an outstanding community hub including a new leisure, community and children's centre, as well as many other new and enhanced local facilities including a new library.

The JV is made up of staff both from the council and from Taylor Wimpey, and will deliver all aspects of the redevelopment together. Joint working is essential to the success of the scheme, so that you, the local people are able to make the most of the opportunities involved, whether in employment and training such as apprenticeships on and around the site, or bringing more cultural and sporting activities to the area along with the improved facilities.

Based on the preferred option which came out of the masterplanning consultations of 2013-14, Taylor Wimpey submitted their vision of the scheme which will be available for your viewing and comment at our summer event. Your assistance will be vital to make sure that the detail in the planning submission to be developed by the JV when drawing up technical designs for the new homes and community infrastructure, which will be put forward for consultation in the Autumn, is what the estates need both now and in the future.

You are warmly invited to come along on 22 July to York Gardens and meet the JV team at this year's Get Active Battersea Festival, where you can see the proposals as they are developing and find out more about ways to get involved in the process.

Best wishes,

Cllr Ravi Govindia
Leader of Wandsworth Council

COUNCIL APPOINTS JOINT VENTURE PARTNER

Wandsworth Council selects partner for the regeneration of the Winstanley and York Road Estates

Wandsworth Council is pleased to announce a joint venture with Taylor Wimpey for the major regeneration of the Winstanley & York Road Estates, following a competitive selection process.

The regeneration will create a variety of high quality new homes, and will deliver a number of important new amenities and facilities for the local community. There will be an increased number of homes for social renting, as well as for shared equity, shared ownership, low cost rent and market rent. The new homes will be modern and energy efficient, built to the highest of standards for residents. This exciting project will also bring new training and educational facilities, leading to more job prospects in the area.

The new homes will be offered to all current secure tenants and resident leaseholders and will be phased so that residents will not have to move out until the completion date. Taylor Wimpey and Wandsworth Council are committed to the rehousing and compensation requirements previously announced to facilitate a smooth transition for all involved.

Lee Bishop, Managing Director at Taylor Wimpey said "We are thrilled to be involved in such an exciting regeneration project in the heart of Battersea, where we can play a part in improving the area for local people, businesses and the community."

The Council's Executive formally approved the formation of the Joint Venture on the 3rd July 2017. The full paper can be viewed on the Council's website.

Planning application timeline

- Autumn 2017: we will be submitting an application for a number of exciting meanwhile use projects, including a tree nursery, pop up retail, and change of use from a retail unit to the Regeneration Project Office
- Winter 2017: we plan to submit a detailed application for Phase 0, which includes a new residential building, church and school
- Spring/Summer 2018: we will be submitting our hybrid application for Phase One, which comprises the wider estate, along with the overall masterplan, a new park, reversion of the children's centre, community centre and a new leisure centre

CARNIVAL COMES TO YORK GARDENS

On Saturday 20 May, hundreds of people from the Winstanley and York Road estates and the wider Wandsworth borough got into the carnival spirit on York Gardens. The spectacular event was hosted by the award winning Flagz Mas band and featured on the penultimate day of the Wandsworth Arts Fringe.

Festival-goers listened to the sound of steel pan, and enjoyed performances from Calypsonian and Soca artists including Mckenzie Hart, Jo Money and Deevine. Local dance group Re:zone8 captivated the audience, and a fashion show by kids from Caius House who wore African-style garments by ethical designer Fée Uhssi inspired everyone. Along with sampling delicious Caribbean food and visiting the many African Caribbean stalls, younger attendees participated in flag designing and carnival mask and head piece making workshops run by Flagz Junior Mas Band, Caius House and Providence House youth clubs. Visitors also had a chance to jam on African drums provided by the Tavaziva Dance Company.

The entertainment concluded with a stunning showcase of Flagz's 2017 carnival costumes and with everyone enjoying the Caribbean rhythms provided by Flagz Sound. Inspired members of the audience even had the opportunity to sign up to join the Mas Band for Notting Hill Carnival 2017!

For more details on how you can be involved, contact info@flagzmasband.

CAIUS HOUSE YOUTH CLUB

Caius House is a charity and youth club which has been serving the Battersea community for over a century. The centre provides a range of exciting activities every weekday evening from 3pm until 9pm for 8 to 21 year olds.

Caius House has recently undergone a significant renovation and in September 2014 opened its doors again as a modern youth centre in its original location in Holman Road, SW11 3RL. With state of the art facilities including a dance studio, sports hall, fitness suite, recording studio, kitchen, and café area, the new building can offer more than conventional youth club activities.

Whether you feel sporty, arty, musical or creative, Caius House offers activities for everyone. The centre is now also open every Saturday 10am to 1pm for students who need support with their homework or somewhere quiet to study.

Membership to Caius House is free of charge. To join or for more information about the activities on offer, visit www.caiushouse.org/ or pop in to Caius House (entrance on Yelverton Road) after 4pm Monday to Friday and speak to a member of the team at reception.

Case Study:

RIHANNA, AGE 11

Rihanna is 11 years old and has been attending Caius House for almost 2 years after finding out about the centre at a local event in York Gardens. Through attending youth centres herself when she was younger, Rihanna's mother, Chantelle, believes establishments like this are vital for the local community as they provide opportunities and somewhere for young people to go. Rihanna's favourite activities are drama, dance and T-shirt printing. During the holidays Rihanna also gets involved with the cooking project and spends a lot of time in the media room. Rihanna actively participates in the sessions at Caius House and gets on well with other members. It has helped her meet people outside of school and she now plays football on the weekends with other young people from Caius House.

COMMUNITY VOICES

I have lived on the York Road estate for almost my whole life, but my Grandma lived in the same block as us for 10 years before my family moved in next door. My Mum and her 10 siblings saw a grittier side to the estate when they were growing up here, so I think she has been a lot more protective of me. I grew up going to the local youth centres where I got to know other young people from the estate, and I particularly enjoyed playing table tennis and being part of the Providence House football team.

My real passion is music and I try to encourage and provide a platform for other young people who are interested in the same. I host concerts and open mic sessions in Providence House, giving new artists the opportunity to showcase their music. I also successfully applied for a £20,000 grant from the Evening Standard and used it to build a brand new studio in Providence House. I now run the studio, hiring it out to young people for a small fee and mixing and mastering the artists' vocals.

I want young people to thrive more and to not put themselves down - we've seen this quite a bit on the estates recently. When young people rap about dark matters in the studio, I try to show them another side through happier music.

I also hope that attitudes in the estate will change after the regeneration, due to how it will look. I want people to walk around the new area and feel safer and more positive. The Regeneration Team gave me the opportunity to document the estate as it is now, and I chose to do this in the form of a picture book. This was so there will always be a copy of how the estate is before it changes. Through this project I was linked with a mentor who gave me guidance and I found him really inspirational.

In the same way, I am trying to inspire and be a positive influence on my friends - I have helped some to take up video blogging, make recordings and take photographs. I was recently asked to speak about the work I have done and intend to do at a House of Commons event for young entrepreneurs sponsored by Jane Ellison on behalf of Battersea Arts Centre. I was really happy to do this as BAC was where I started my business, when they gave me my first grant.

I was also honoured to speak on the TV channel London Live about the voluntary work I do with the Jimmy Asher Foundation where I host a radio show and debate about relevant news stories from a young person's point of view. The charity opened up many opportunities for me, and I hope that I can positively impact the lives of other young people in a similar way.
